BIODIVERSITY AND OTHER GLOBAL GOVERNANCE ISSUES

Books and chapters, peer review articles

Andersen, Regine

How multilateral development assistance triggered the conflict in Rwanda

Pp. 441-456 in: Third World Quarterly, Vol. 21, No 3 (2000)

The article argues that three main strategies introduced by multilateral development agencies prior to the genocide in Rwanda in 1994 were contradictory and - despite the best intentions - helped trigger the conflict. Lessons to learn are discussed.

Rosendal, G. Kristin

The convention on biological diversity and developing countries

Dordrecht ; Boston ; London : Kluwer Academic Publishers, 2000. - xiii, 313 p. ISBN 0-7923-6375-2.

The book focuses on the negotiation process leading up to the formation of the Convention on Biodiversity and the domestic implementation of this international agreement.

Wettestad, Jørgen

Designing effective environmental regimes: The case of the Convention on Long-range Transboundary Air Pollution (CLRTAP)

Pp. 671-705 in: Energy and Environment, Vol. 10, No 6 (1999)

Are international regimes established to solve environmental problems operating and designed as effectively as possible? This article presents main findings with regard to the Convention on Long-Range Transboundary Air Pollution (CLRTAP).

Willoch, Kåre

Liberae dilemmaer i en globalisert økonomi. (Liberal dilemmas in a globalised economy)

Pp. 385-394 in: Nytt Norsk Tidsskrift, Vol. 17, No 4 (2000). - In Norwegian.

Globalisation brings both benefits and problems. The problematic effects are to a great extent caused by deviations from market economy principles. The most important imperfection is that producers often do not pay the full costs caused by their activities. If producers were compelled to pay for the pollution they cause, and for negative social effects when relocating production, not only the environment and social relations, but also the world economy, would improve.

Other publications

Mobilizing private capital for the global environment : A theoretical analysis of the process of attracting private investment to renewable energy and energy efficiency projects

Lysaker : FNI, 2000. - 266p. - (FNI Report ; 4/2000)

This doctoral thesis analyses how sustainable development can be financed, if governments are increasingly unable to provide the required resources. How can governments and multilateral institutions catalyze private sector funding to contribute to sustainable development?

Wettestad, Jørgen (ed.)

The effectiveness of global and regional environmental agreements: Proceedings from the 1999 Oslo Concerted Action Workshop

Lysaker : FNI, 2000. - 64p. - (FNI Report ; 1/2000)

This is a report of the 1999 workshop on the effectiveness of global and regional environmental agreements, within the 1998-2000 EU Concerted Action Project on the Effectiveness of International Environmental Agreements.

CLIMATE POLITICS

Books and chapters, peer review articles

Moe, Arild and Kristian Tangen

The Kyoto mechanisms and Russian climate politics

London : Royal Institute of International Affairs, 2000. - 118p. - ISBN 1 86203 124X.

An analysis of the Russian position in the climate negotiations on the background of energy sector interests and trends in emissions, and major issues in Russia's domestic implementation: Joint implementation vs emissions trading, the role of 'hot air'.

Wettestad, Jørgen

The complicated development of EU climate policy
Pp. 25-47 in: Climate change and European leadership - A sustainable role for Europe? / edited by J. Gupta and M. Grubb. - Dordrecht : Kluwer Academic Publishers, 2000. - ISBN 0-7923-6466-x.

Other publications

Andresen, Steinar and Shardul Agrawala

Leaders, pushers and laggards in the making of the climate regime

Lysaker : FNI, 2000. - 22p. - (FNI Report ; 9/2000)
A discussion of the relations between pushers and laggards in the development of the climate regime. It takes more to be a leader than a pusher. The article also discusses whether leadership was a necessary condition for the making of the climate regime.

Christiansen, Atle Christer

On the effectiveness of environmental taxes: The impacts of CO<sub>2</sub>-taxes on environmental innovation in the Norwegian petroleum sector

Lysaker : FNI, 2000. - 81p. - (FNI Report ; 10/2000)
This report describes and assesses the dynamic efficiency properties of Norwegian CO<sub>2</sub>-taxes, for which we examine abatement measures that have been implemented and/or identified by oil companies operating on the Norwegian Continental Shelf.

Hasselmeier, Gesine and Wettestad, Jørgen

German climate policy ambitiousness: Just a side effect of reunification?

Lysaker : FNI, 2000. - 28p. - (FNI Report ; 2/2000)
Germany has formulated an ambitious domestic climate policy target and taken on a rather activist international role. Is German climate policy ambitiousness only a side effect of reunification and related emission reductions "for free"?

This chapter sums up efforts in the 1990s to develop effective EU climate policy and climate policy instruments and in this context discusses some main lessons and implications both for future EU climate policy and for the global context.

Heggelund, Gørild, Kristian Tangen and Hu Tao
Climate policies in China: Institutional setting and the potential for the CDM

Lysaker : FNI, 2000. - 27p. - (FNI Report ; 12/2000)
The main objective of this report is to assess the potential for the Clean Development Mechanism (CDM) in China. The analysis indicates that a realistic potential for the CDM in China is somewhere between 400 million and 1 billion USD.

Wettestad, Jørgen and Hals Butenschøn, Siri

The increasing British climate ambitiousness: A mere reflection of "The Dash for Gas"?

Lysaker : FNI, 2000. - 22p. - (FNI Report ; 3/2000)
Three main questions are discussed: first, why are initial British climate positions more on the reluctant side? Second, why are positions more ambitious towards the mid-1990s? Third, why the seeming doubling of reduction ambitions in the Spring of 1997?

Buen, Jørund

Challenges facing the utilisation of transferred environmental technology in China: The case of China's Agenda 21 Project 6-8

Lysaker : FNI, 2000. - 24p. - (FNI Note ; 1/2000)
This paper focuses on intranational conditions for successful utilisation of transferred environmental technology, taking China as a case in point.

ENERGY POLITICS

Books and chapters, peer review articles

Eide, Asbjørn, Helge Ole Bergesen and Pia Rudolfson Goyer (eds.)

Human rights and the oil industry

Antwerpen, Groningen, Oxford : Intersentia, 2000. - x, 198 p. - ISBN 90-5095-139-2.

This study is the first comprehensive description and analysis of the role and politics of transnational corporations with regard to human rights and how they can meet their social responsibility in the countries of operation.

Haugland, Torleif, Helge Ole Bergesen, Daniel Heradstveit et al.

Petroleum investment and human rights: An exploratory country study of Azerbaijan

Oslo : Center for Economic Analysis - ECON, 2000. 51p.

The study comprises a framework of analysis for assessing the impact of the oil industry on human rights in oil producing countries and a preliminary country study of Azerbaijan.

Tangen, Kristian, Kåre Rudsar and Helge Ole Bergesen
Confronting the ghost: Shell's human rights strategy
Pp. 185-198 in: Human rights and the oil industry / edited by Bergesen, Helge Ole and Asbjørn Eide.

Antwerpen, Groningen, Oxford : Intersentia, 2000. - 198 p. - ISBN 90-5095-139-2.

This chapter analyses the response of Shell to the public outcry over human rights abuses in Nigeria. The changes in company policies and organisations are reviewed, concluding that Shell has passed the point of no return by creating strong expectations that they will change their policies on human rights.

Other publications

Kryukov, Valery and Arild Moe

Safeguarding Europe's gas supplies

Pp. 46-47 in: Energy in the CIS and Eastern Europe - Yearbook 2000. - London : The Petroleum Economist Ltd, 2000. - ISBN 1 86186 175 3.

The article gives an overview of alternative supply options for the Russian gas industry and presents the major challenges to the present industry structure.

Bergesen, Helge Ole, Torleif Haugland and Leiv Lunde

Petro-states - Predatory or developmental

Lysaker : FNI, 2000. - 52p. - (FNI Report ; 11/2000)

The present report is a comparative analysis of Angola and Azerbaijan, and is based on several specific studies of petro-state dynamics in the two countries.

Christiansen, Atle Christer

New renewable energy developments and the climate change issue: A case study of Norwegian politics

Lysaker : FNI, 2000. - 28p. - (FNI Report ; 8/2000)

This report unfolds linkages between public policies and new renewable energy developments using Norway as a case in point. Impacts of public policies are assessed in terms of technology and industrial development dynamics.

Moe, Arild and Anne-Kristin Jørgensen

Petroleum development in Russian Barents Sea: Driving forces and constraints

Lysaker : FNI, 2000. - 62p. - (FNI Report ; 7/2000)

The report examines the forces alternatively driving and hindering offshore hydrocarbon development in the Russian sector of the Barents Sea.

EUROPEAN AND EU ENVIRONMENTAL POLITICS

Books and chapters, peer review articles

Laugen, Torunn

The reluctant pusher : Norway and the acid rain convention

Pp. 109-138 in: International environmental agreements and domestic politics : the case of acid rain / edited by Arild Underdal and Kenneth Hanf. - Aldershot, UK : Ashgate, 2000. - xiv, 384 p. - ISBN 1-84014-394-0.

The Norwegian acid rain policy has remained the same for two decades: to reduce damage to the Norwegian environment caused by acidification. This can be achieved only by reductions in foreign sources.

Skjærseth, Jon Birger

North Sea cooperation: Linking international and domestic pollution control

Manchester : Manchester University Press, 2000. - 302 p. - ISBN 0719058090.

The volume presents a detailed study of how environmental institutions have affected the establishment of joint pollution commitments in North Sea cooperation, as well as domestic water and marine policy in Norway, the Netherlands and the UK.

Other publications

Hovden, Eivind

EU environmental policy and the choice of legal base

Lysaker : FNI, 2000. - 26p. - (FNI Report ; 5/2000)

This report examines if and how the Maastricht Treaty's reform of the available legal bases for EU environmental legislation had an impact on the post-Maastricht choice of legal base for the legislation and thus environmental policy.

Schjølset, Stig

The EU fisheries policy: Institutions, instruments and politics

Lysaker : FNI, 2000. - 39p. - (FNI Report ; 6/2000)

The aim of this report is to assess the relative impact of institutional factors in the EU fisheries management regime. Key institutional aspects are discussed and 'weighted' against political factors in the respective member states and at the EU level.

OCEAN POLITICS AND LAW

Books and chapters, peer review articles

Brubaker, Douglas

Regulation of navigation and vessel-source pollution in the Northern Sea Route: Article 234 and state practice

Pp. 221-243 in: Protecting the polar marine environment: Law and policy for pollution prevention / edited by Davor

Vidas. - Cambridge, UK : Cambridge University Press, 2000. - ISBN 0 521 66311 3.

In this chapter the author looks at the application and interpretation of Article 234 of the LOS Convention in Russian regulation of navigation and vessel-source pollution in the Northern Sea Route, as well as relevant practice of some other Arctic states.

Hønneland, Geir

Enforcement co-operation between Norway and Russia in the Barents Sea

Pp. 249-267 in: Ocean Development and International Law, Vol. 31, No 3 (2000)

The article reviews the enforcement co-operation between Norway and Russia in the Barents Sea fisheries, which has evolved since 1993.

Hønneland, Geir

Compliance in the Barents Sea fisheries: How fishermen account for conformity with rules

Pp. 11-19 in: Marine Policy, Vol. 24, No 1 (2000)

The article provides the results of an investigation of compliance in the Barents Sea fisheries, based on personal interviews with a selection of Norwegian and Russian fishermen.

Hønneland, Geir

Compliance in the Barents Sea fisheries

Oslo : Unipub forlag, 2000. - 190p. - ISBN 82-570-4549-7

The thesis addresses the topic of compliance in the Barents Sea fisheries, both the level of actual compliance and the explanations provided by the fishermen themselves for choosing either a compliant or non-compliant path of behaviour.

Other publications

Hønneland, Geir

Kystvakten: en legitim vaktbikkje i fiskeriene (The Coast Guard: A legitimate watch-dog in the fisheries)

Pp. 294-305 in: Forsvaret i en ny tid. Oslo Militære Samfunds 175 års jubileumsbok. - Oslo : Oslo Militære Samfund, 2000. - In Norwegian.

The chapter provides an overview of the main tasks of the Norwegian Coast Guard, with a particular emphasis on its role in fisheries enforcement. In general, the Coast Guard seems to be perceived as a legitimate watch-dog in the Barents Sea fisheries.

Kapetsky, James McDain, Geir Hønneland and Kieran Kelleher

Fishcode project: Report of the evaluation mission

Rome : FAO, 2000. - 56p.

Hønneland, Geir and Frode Nilssen

Co-management in northwest Russian fisheries

Pp. 635-648 in: Society and Natural Resources, Vol. 13, No 8 (2000)

The article discusses the degree of co-management in Northwest Russian fisheries and whether it is meaningful to use this concept in a post-Soviet context.

Stokke, Olav Schram

Managing straddling stocks: The interplay of global and regional regimes

Pp. 205-234 in: Ocean and Coastal Management, Vol. 43, No 2-3 (2000)

This article examines the interplay of global and regional efforts to strengthen the basis for management of high seas fisheries.

Vidas, Davor

Emerging law of the sea issues in the Antarctic maritime area: A heritage for the new century?

Pp. 195-220 in: Ocean Development and International Law, Vol. 31, No 1-2 (2000)

This article addresses current and forthcoming issues of interrelationships between regimes under the Antarctic Treaty System and Law of the Sea in the Southern Ocean (Patagonian toothfish, continental shelf beyond 200 miles, as well as deep seabed).

The report evaluates the FAO project 'Fishcode' on assistance to developing countries for the implementation of the Code of Conduct for responsible fisheries.

Markussen, Jan Magne

Utnyttelsen av dyphavsmineralene - Norges muligheter, status og perspektiver. (The exploitation of deep seabed minerals - the possibilities for Norway, status and perspectives)

Lysaker : FNI, 2000. - 114p. - (FNI Report ; 14/2000). - In Norwegian.

The South Seas island paradise, Cook Islands, may become an arena for a new Norwegian mining adventure. Deep seabed mining represents a possible fourth "leg" for Norway as an ocean nation. Commercial viability and industrial opportunities are analysed.

POLAR POLITICS AND LAW; RUSSIA AND NORWAY

Books and chapters, peer review articles

Brubaker, Douglas

Urbefolkningens rettigheter vs. utnyttelse av naturressurser: en skisse av internasjonal lovgivning (The legal rights of indigenous people vs. exploitation of natural resources: a sketch on international jurisdiction)

Pp. 71-78 in: Nordisk Østforum, Vol. 14, No 1 (2000). - In Norwegian.

Oil and gas development in the Pechora Sea can cause serious problems for the Nenets and Komi indigenous peoples of Northwest Russia. International law governing self-determination in the Arctic should be clarified, to strengthen their legal rights.

Moe, Arild and Anne-Kristin Jørgensen

Offshore mineral development in the Russian Barents Sea

Pp. 98-133 in: Post-Soviet Geography and Economics, Vol. 41, No 2 (2000)

The article examines the forces alternatively driving and hindering offshore hydrocarbon development in the Russian sector of the Barents Sea.

Ragner, Claes Lykke

The Northern Sea Route: Commercial potential, economic significance, and infrastructure requirements.

Pp. 541-580 in: Post-Soviet Geography and Economics, Vol. 41, No 8 (2000)

The paper assesses the Northern Sea Route's commercial potential and economic importance, both as a transit route between Europe and Asia, and as an export route for oil, gas and other natural resources in the Russian Arctic.

Ragner, Claes Lykke (ed.)

The 21st Century: Turning point for the Northern Sea Route?

Dordrecht/Boston/London : Kluwer Academic Publishers, 2000. - 308p. - ISBN 0-7923-6365-5.

This book contains the proceedings of the Northern Sea Route User Conference which was held in Oslo 18-20 November 1999. It contains the full manuscript of all speeches that were held.

Sawhill, Steven G.

Cleaning-up the Arctic's cold war legacy: Nuclear waste and Arctic military environmental cooperation

Pp. 5-36 in: Cooperation and Conflict, Vol. 35, No 1 (2000)

This paper examines the Arctic Military Environmental Cooperation programme, a trilateral initiative between Norway, Russia and the USA to address the nuclear waste problems of the Russian Northern Fleet.

Stokke, Olav Schram

Sub-regional cooperation and protection of the Arctic marine environment : The Barents Sea

Pp. 124-148 in: Protecting the polar marine environment: Law and policy for pollution prevention / edited by Davor Vidas. - Cambridge, UK: Cambridge University Press, 2000. - ISBN 0-521-66311-3.

The article discusses whether and how the subregional level serves to complement and strengthen the effectiveness of cooperative processes at regional and global levels.

Stokke, Olav Schram

Radioactive waste in the Barents and Kara Seas: Russian implementation of the Global Dumping Regime

Pp. 200-220 in: Protecting the Polar marine environment: Law and policy for pollution prevention / edited by Davor Vidas. - Cambridge, UK: Cambridge University Press, 2000. - ISBN 0-521-66311-3.

The core of the argument here is that Soviet and later Russian management of nuclear waste in the north has been significantly influenced by regulations and programmes generated under international dumping instruments.

Vidas, Davor (ed.)

Implementing the environmental protection regime for the Antarctic

Dordrecht/Boston/London : Kluwer Academic Publishers, 2000. - 446p. - ISBN 0 7923 6609 3 (HB).

This book provides the first systematic overview of the implementation issues prompted by the entry into force of the Protocol on Environmental Protection to the Antarctic Treaty in 1998.

Vidas, Davor (ed.)

Protecting the polar marine environment: Law and policy for pollution prevention

Cambridge, UK : Cambridge University Press, 2000. - 276p. - ISBN 0 521 66311 3.

This book compares global, regional and national levels of regulation in protecting the polar marine environment, and considers specific pollution issues like land-based activities, the dumping of radioactive waste, and shipping in ice-covered waters.

Vidas, Davor

The Antarctic continental shelf beyond 200 miles: A juridical Rubik's cube

Pp. 261-272 in: Implementing the environmental protection regime for the Antarctic / edited by Davor Vidas.

Dordrecht/Boston/London : Kluwer Academic Publishers, 2000. - 446 p. - ISBN 0 7923 6609 3 (HB).

The theme of this chapter is the most recent manifestation of difficulties that arise when the global law of the sea solutions are applied in the specific legal and political, and indeed natural, context of the Antarctic region.

Vidas, Davor

Protecting the polar marine environment: Interplay of regulatory frameworks

Pp. 3-15 in: Protecting the polar marine environment: Law and policy for pollution prevention / edited by Davor Vidas. - Cambridge, UK : Cambridge University Press, 2000. - ISBN 0 521 66311 3.

This chapter serves as an introductory overview for the book and provides the framework for further discussion.

Vidas, Davor

The polar marine environment in regional cooperation

Pp. 78-103 in: Protecting the polar marine environment: Law and policy for pollution prevention / edited by Davor Vidas. - Cambridge, UK : Cambridge University Press, 2000. - ISBN 0 521 66311 3.

During the 1990s, international cooperative efforts concerning both the Arctic and the Antarctic have come to share one significant similarity: an emphasis on international protection of the polar environment, in particular the marine environment.

Vidas, Davor

Entry into force of the environmental protocol and implementation issues: An overview

Pp. 1-17 in: Implementing the environmental protection regime for the Antarctic / edited by Davor Vidas. - Dordrecht/Boston/London : Kluwer Academic Publishers, 2000. - ISBN 0 7923 6609 3 (HB).

Implementation through Antarctic Treaty System cooperation, through interrelations with other international arrangements and organisations and implementation at the national level of states parties to the Protocol are briefly portrayed.

The Fridtjof Nansen Institute 2000

Vidas, Davor and Birgit Njåstad

The ATS on the web: Introducing modern information technology in Antarctic affairs

Pp. 141-159 in: Implementing the environmental protection regime for the Antarctic / edited by Davor Vidas. - Dordrecht/Boston/London : Kluwer Academic Publishers, 2000. - ISBN 0 7923 6609 3 (HB).

The purpose was to facilitate the distribution of documents for Consultative Meetings, in absence of an Antarctic Treaty Secretariat and to help enhance transparency of the ATS operation.

Østreng, Willy

The way ahead for the Northern Sea Route: A possible strategy

Pp. 241-245 in: "The 21st Century - Turning Point for the Northern Sea Route? / edited by Claes Lykke Ragner. - Dordrecht/Boston/London : Kluwer Academic Publishers, 2000. - 307p. - ISBN 0-7923-6365-5.

This presentation is a summing-up of the 3 days of discussions at the Northern Sea Route User Conference 18-20 November 1999, seen from the viewpoint of the research community.

Østreng, Willy

What do we know about the Northern Sea Route? INSROP's theoretical and applied research design: operational features.

Pp. 39-50 in: The 21st Century - Turning Point for the Northern Sea Route? / edited by Claes Lykke Ragner. - Dordrecht/Boston/London : Kluwer Academic Publishers, 2000. - 307p. - ISBN 0-7923-6365-5.

This presentation gives an overall overview of the research design of INSROP, and the methodology used to identify the "hot spots" of the NSR, i.e. the main bottlenecks for carrying out environmentally and operationally safe navigation on the NSR.

Østreng, Willy

Strategic, legal and political implications of international shipping on the NSR

Pp. 75-86 in: The 21st Century - Turning Point for the Northern Sea Route? / edited by Claes Lykke Ragner. - Dordrecht/Boston/London : Kluwer Academic Publishers, 2000. - 307p. - ISBN 0-7923-6365-5.

This presentation sums up the main results of INSROP's Sub-programme IV "Political, Legal and Strategic Factors".

Other publications

Brubaker, Douglas

The legal regime of the Northern Sea Route - a U.S./Russian dispute with a potential to stop foreign ships?

Pp. 209-212 in: The 21st Century - Turning Point for the Northern Sea Route? / edited by Claes Lykke Ragner. Dordrecht/Boston/London : Kluwer Academic Publishers, 2000. - 307p. - ISBN 0-7923-6365-5.

This presentation focuses on the disagreement between Russia and the U.S. concerning the jurisdiction of the Northern Sea Route.

Hønneland, Geir

Erik Hansen and Arnfinn Tønnessen: Environment and living conditions on the Kola peninsula

Pp. 83-84 in: Nordisk Østforum, Vol. 14, No 1 (2000). - In Norwegian.

The article is a review of Erik Hansen and Arnfinn Tønnessen's report "Environment and Living Conditions on the Kola Peninsula", published by FAFO.

Hønneland, Geir and Arild Moe

Evaluation of the Norwegian plan of action for nuclear safety: Priorities, organisation, implementation

Oslo : Norwegian Ministry of Foreign Affairs, 2000. - 64p. - (Evaluation Report - Norwegian Ministry of Foreign Affairs).

Evaluation of the program for nuclear safety supported by the Norwegian government, with projects mainly in Northwestern Russia.

Jørgensen, Anne-Kristin (ed.)

Rapport fra idedugnad den 6 september 2000 (Report from a brain-storming session on September 6, 2000)

Oslo : Norwegian Ministry of Foreign Affairs, 2000. - 59p. - In Norwegian.

The report consists of summaries from group discussions and presentations held at a brain-storming session on the "Russia-strategy" of the Norwegian Government arranged by the Norwegian Ministry of Foreign Affairs 6 September 2000.

Ragner, Claes Lykke

Northern Sea Route Cargo Flows and Infrastructure: Present state and future potential

Lysaker : FNI, 2000. - 124p. - (FNI Report ; 13/2000)

The report assesses the Northern Sea Route's commercial potential and economic importance, both as a transit route between Europe and Asia, and as an export route for oil, gas and other natural resources in the Russian Arctic.

Sawhill, Steven G.

Review of Antarctic environments and resources: A geographical perspective, by James D. Hanson and John E. Gordon

Pp. 62-63 in: Polar Record, Vol. 36, No 196 (2000)

Hanson and Gordon have written a comprehensive, yet concise, treatment of Antarctic science, history, politics and environmental management.

THEORY AND METHOD IN THE STUDY OF INTERNATIONAL COOPERATION

Books and chapters, peer review articles

Andresen, Steinar, Tora Skodvin, Arild Underdal and Jørgen Wettestad
Science and politics in international environmental regimes: Between integrity and involvement
Manchester : Manchester University Press, 2000. - 221p.
- ISBN 0 7190 5806 6.

This book discusses the relationship between science and politics in international environmental regimes, with specific attention given to the organisational handling of this relationship.

Hønneland, Geir

Coercive and discursive compliance mechanisms in the study of natural resources: A case study from the Barents Sea fisheries

Dordrecht, Boston, London : Kluwer Academic Publishers, 2000. - 204p.

The book addresses the cross-perspective social science debate on the management of common-pool resources and the issue of compliance in the Barents Sea fisheries.

Skjærseth, Jon Birger

Environmental 'voluntary' agreements: Conditions for making them work

Pp. 57-78 in: Swiss Political Science Review, Vol. 6, No 2 (2000)

This article points to the risk of viewing voluntary agreements as generally effective by exploring the conditions under which they are likely to affect the behaviour of target groups.
